Working together has allowed us to share our experiences and enabled us to develop resources that provide practical information for migrant sex workers in many languages.

Our knowledge and ability to analyse and respond to the changing trends within the sex industry in Europe has enabled us to develop innovative and effective intervention models, including outreach, peer education and cultural mediation.

TAMPEP

European Network for HIV/STI
Prevention and Health Promotion
among Migrant Sex Workers

A transnational project that combines research, interventions, and the active participation of sex workers

Preventing exploitation of and violence against women is not the same as eradicating prostitution. Everyone has the right to be protected against exploitation and violence, including migrant sex workers.

TAMPEP was founded in 1993 in response to the needs of migrant sex workers across Europe. It operates a community development and participation model, which is rooted within the equalities and human rights framework, lays the foundation for equitable access to support and services for migrant sex workers and seeks to give voice to migrant sex workers.

TAMPEP is an international networking and intervention project operating in 24 countries in Europe which aims to act as an observatory in relation to the dynamics of migrant prostitution across Europe. Our focus is on assessing the situation and needs of female and transgender sex workers of Central and Eastern Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America, and developing appropriate responses. The project reaches persons from more than 50 different nationalities.

Denial of the rights of migrant sex workers, and the illegal status of many migrants, forces them into exploitative and dangerous situations.

The project's aims are

To promote a holistic strategy underpinned by the principles of respect and inclusion of sex workers.

To advocate for the human and civil rights of female and transgender migrant sex workers.

To facilitate the sharing of knowledge, experience and good practice across Europe, ensuring the needs and issues of sex workers from countries of origin, transition and destination.

To further develop and implement effective and innovative health promotion and HIV prevention strategies and intervention models amongst migrant sex workers in Europe.

The undeniable presence of migrant sex workers across Europe requires a transformation in thinking around women's migration. Female migrant sex workers, including transgender sex workers, must be viewed within the framework of female labour migration.

To consolidate and further develop the TAMPEP network to coordinate efforts across Europe in ensuring appropriate responses to the legal, health and social care needs of migrant sex workers.

To further develop and disseminate TAMPEP resources, including multilingual health promotion materials and guidelines for outreach work, peer education and cultural mediation.

To gather quantitative and qualitative data concerning sex work in Europe, monitor and report on the changing patterns of migration, and the living and working conditions of female and transgender sex workers within Europe.
